GLY-CAS ENDED
HER SUFFERING;
IN NEW HEALTH

Lumbago, Rheumatic Pain Almost Unbearable Before, this Lady States.

"In my opinion there is no medicine that can even compare with your Gly-Cas," Mrs. Esther Carlson, 418 W. First St., Dixon, said recently while talking with the Gly-Cas Man who is at the Campbell's White Cross Pharmacy, this city.

MRS. ESTHER CARLSON.

"At the time I first read about Gly-Cas I was bedfast with lumbago and rheumatism," Mrs. Carlson said. "It is the truth that I could not move from one side of the bed to the other—could not raise myself without assistance, either. The pain in my back was almost unbearable. I admit that at first I was skeptical about the merit of Gly-Cas because I had seemingly tried every known medicine without any benefits. Finally, however, I decided to give Gly-Cas a trial and then, before the first box was all used I was actually out of bed and able to get around slowly. Naturally I kept on with Gly-Cas and after using several more boxes, the awful lumbago and rheumatism condition entirely left me. No more do I have those former piercing, knife-like pains and further, I am now in a better state of health than I've been for years. I have derived simply remarkable benefits from Gly-Cas and I advise anyone to give this medicine a trial."

The Gly-Cas Man is at the Campbell White Cross Pharmacy, Dixon, and is daily meeting the public and explaining this surprising new vegetable preparation. Sold in Rochelle, Barker & Sullivan; Franklin Grove, G. S. Ives; Polo, C. R. Clothier; Ashton, G. R. Charters & Son; Amboy, Aschenbrenner's; Compton, Hills, Adv.

however, that the coast of West Spitzbergen should first be searched from Kings Bay to South Cape, its southernmost extremity.
Others believed that Amundsen might have landed at Advent Bay, south of Kings Bay and established a base there for searching operations for the seven men who drifted eastward in the bag of the Italia on May 25 and were swallowed up by the Arctic.

Major Umberto Maddalena today was planning to take off as soon as possible in his large Italian seaplane to search for Amundsen and the seven men of the Italia. Major Penzo flying another Italian seaplane, also intended to search for Amundsen as did Swedish flyers in the seaplane Upland.

Others Co-operate
Norwegian and French vessels were also co-operating in the search. Two French naval vessels were assigned to search in Barnets Sea for the missing plane.

General Umberto Nobile informed the base ship Citta di Milano by radio that the storage batteries dropped by Major Maddalena for Nobile's radio had been damaged because one of the parachutes failed to open.

Nobile suggested that a plane equipped with skis be sent to his party on the ice floes. He thought that there was a good chance that it would be able to pick up the trans- ported men one at a time and transport them back to Kings Bay.

Calendar of Coming Events

Friday
Presbyterian Missionary Society—Mrs. Paul Lord, 606 Brinton avenue.
Minnie Bell Rebekah Lodge—I. O. O. F. Hall.

SERMONS WE SEE
I'd rather see a sermon than hear one any day.
I'd rather one should walk with me than merely tell the way.
The eye's a better pupil and more willing than the ear.
Fine counsel is confusing, but example's always clear.
And the best of all the preachers are the men who live their creeds.
For to see good put in action is what everybody needs.

I can soon learn to do it if you'll let me see it done.
I can watch your hands in action, but your tongue too fast may run.
And the lectures you deliver may be very wise and true.
But I'd rather get my lessons by observing what you do;
For I may misunderstand you and the high advice you give.
But there's no misunderstanding how you act and how you live.

When I see a deed of kindness, I am eager to be kind.
When a weaker brother stumbles, and a strong man stays behind.
Just to see if he can help him, then the wish grows strong in me
To become as big and thoughtful as I know that friend to be.
And all travelers can witness that the best of guides today
Is not the one who tells them, but the one who shows the way.

One good man teaches many, men believe what they behold.
One deed of kindness noticed is worth forty that are told.
Who stands with men of honor learns to hold his honor dear.
For right living speaks a language which to everyone is clear.
Tho an able speaker charms me with his eloquence, I say
I'd rather see a sermon than to hear one any day.

Girls' Camp Staff Is Now Announced

The Girls "Y" Camp opened yesterday afternoon at Bovey's Springs. Such a happy bunch of girls, much baggage, much pep and all the makings of a real camp. The second camp period will open July second.
The theme for the camp known as "The Builders", is being used again this year. The materials used to merge the foundation are mortar, pebble-dash, rocks, stepping stones and marble. All these materials will be used in building a strong foundation for our girls to stand upon. Each has its symbol and own significance.

A fine swim, base ball game and then the happy hour around the camp-fire, made up the first afternoon's activities. The girls are organized into special class groups, where they will learn many new and interesting things. Each minute is occupied, as the busy girl is the happy girl.
The following staff will put over the camp's program for the first period:

Then cut deep gashes into the fish and fill with a well seasoned bread dressing. Bake with frequent basting until tender.

Cherry Sponge.
Two cups stoned cherries, 1 cup boiling water, 1 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons granulated gelatin, 3 egg whites, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, few grains salt, ½ cup chopped walnut meats.

Soften gelatin in ½ cup cold water. Simmer cherries in boiling water and sugar until cherries are tender but not broken. Drain from syrup and dissolve gelatin in hot syrup. Add lemon juice and let cool. When mixture begins to thicken fold in the whites of eggs beaten until stiff and dry with a few grains of salt. Add cherries and turn into a mold to chill and become firm. Turn out of mold and serve sprinkled with nuts and a sauce made by beating the yolks of the eggs until thick and lemon colored and gradually beating in one-half cup powdered sugar and ½ cup whipping cream. Flavor sauce with ½ teaspoon vanilla.

Short Interviews With Famous Women

By NEA Service

"Of course there is magic in the world—for those who can catch it—just as there are fairies for children," says Mrs. Houdini, widow of the late world famous magician.

"But it requires tremendous dexterity, poise and exceeding self-reliance to be able to have a hand in magic."

"Add to all this a belief in the supernatural and one becomes a spiritualist. But the difference between a spiritualist and a magician is that a magician never fools himself, and I'm inclined to think spiritualists do. For they are fanatical in their belief in their communication with the hereafter."

"Not a day has passed since my husband's death but that at least one spiritualist has come to see me. Houdini and I made a compact 35 years ago that the first one to pass would get a secret message back to the other, a code message. To date I've had many messages purported to be from Houdini but never one that had a word of our code in it."

"I've believed in magic for 35 years now. If I ever get Houdini's message I'll be convinced of spiritualism. I am still waiting, and hoping, to get his message. I obey all the impulses I have to do things that might bring a communication."

"I have a handkerchief Ruth Snyder embroidered for me while in the death house. The other night I woke up with the urge to wave that handkerchief three times around my head. I waved and waved it. Nothing happened."

"If anybody can come through it will be Houdini. Until he does, I am watchfully waiting to believe in spiritualism."

Christian Church S. S. Picnic at Lowell Park

The Sunday school of the Christian church and friends numbering about two hundred attended the annual picnic held at Lowell park yesterday. Games were played and a delicious dinner served. In the afternoon the members of the ball team from the Pine Creek Sunday school, which was enjoying a picnic at the park also, and the team from the Christian church of Dixon, played a ball game and the result was a tie, 11 to 11, so there were no hard feelings. The entire day was one of much enjoyment and was placed in the annals of red letter days for the Sunday school.

4—INITIAL NO TRUMP BIDS

At times difficulty is experienced in determining whether to bid a no trump or a suit. The best distribution of cards for a no trump is 4-3-3-3. We have determined that if the hand contains a blank suit, a singleton of a worthless doubleton, it is inadvisable to bid a no trump. A major suit (spades or hearts) always should be given preference to a no trump when holding a sound bid in the major suit. A no trump should be given preference to a minor suit.

In the light of the foregoing, let us examine the following illustrations with a view of determining whether to bid a suit or a no trump.

Spades—X X X; hearts—A K X X; diamonds—X X X; clubs—X X X. Three suits stopped. Count 20 points. Bid one no trump.

Spades—A K J X; hearts—A X X X; diamonds—K Q X X; clubs—K. Three suits stopped. Count 20 points. Bid one no trump.

Three suits stopped. Count 31 points. Singleton in clubs. Bid one spade.

Spades—A K J 10 X; hearts—A X X; diamonds—A K K; clubs—none. Three suits stopped. Count 37 points. Blank in clubs. Bid one spade.

Spades—X X X; hearts—A X X; diamonds—A K; clubs—A K X X. Three suits stopped. Strong club suit. Count 35 points. Bid one no trump instead of minor suit.

Spades—A K J 10 X X; hearts—A X X; diamonds—A; clubs—A X X. All suits stopped. On account of singleton A, give preference to major suit (with 80 honors). Bid one spade.

In bridge, the word "never" is taboo. The proper expression to be used is "hardly ever." The exception to the rule that to bid a no trump only when you have three suits stopped is found in the hands containing four quick tricks masked in two suits, but offering no sound suit bid.

CUSHION COLLARS OF FUR APPEAR

Paris (AP)—Cushion collars appear on many of the advance fall coats. They are necessarily of flat fur. Beaver and mole are used, but varieties of lamb are the first choice. Lelong is the principal advocate of this type of collar.

When the fox head is silky and well formed it is kept on the collars of many wraps. If the head appears on the left shoulder the skin is prolonged well down on the right side. A collar of grey fox on the coat of an almond green ensemble has two heads at the center back of the collar. When a double fox fur is worn, both heads are used, crossing at the back.

Beautiful Wedding Celebrated in Sterling

One of the most pretentious and beautiful weddings in this vicinity for some time was solemnized last evening at the First Presbyterian church in Sterling. Rev. Chester H. Irwin, pastor of the church officiating at the ceremony which united the lives of two prominent young people, Miss Crete Blackman Dillon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Washington Dillon, and John William Bowman of Montana, at 8:30 o'clock. Mrs. Dillon was formerly Miss Crete Blackman, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. O. B. Blackman of this city.

The church was filled with guests and presented a lovely appearance with masses of palms and ferns, green being the predominant color note, the flowers being pink peonies, a profusion of flowers and foliage making an artistic background for the gorgeous and charming affair. The pews were tied with bows of white tulle. A program of nuptial music was given and the large bridal party, ten bridesmaids, made a beautiful picture as they approached the altar. After the ceremony at the church a wedding reception was given at the beautiful Dillon home, and afterwards a dance was held in the garden where a platform had been erected for the occasion and where an orchestra discoursed sweet music throughout the evening, and as the weather was ideal it was a most successful innovation. An artificial light transformed the garden and the lily pool into a veritable fairyland. Here refreshments were served also.

The bride was attired in a wedding gown of ivory satin, headed and she wore a tulle veil which fell in graceful folds from a beautiful lace cap caught at either side with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of roses and orchids.

PROGRESS THROUGH LOSS.

Erich Graichen, a young German scientist, claims to have invented a machine that will "isolate and split" atoms.

He is primarily interested in finding something to cure cancer, and he believes his invention will do it; but he says that it can also be used as the most destructive war weapon ever known. It emanates rays that will kill any living thing they touch; if directed on a ton of coal, he adds, these rays would cause it to explode with a force of 90 billion horsepower.

He wants to build a bigger machine than the experimental model he is now working with, he continues, but is afraid to fear it would wreck his laboratory and kill everybody in it.

In the absence of confirmatory reports, it is impossible to tell how much of his story is sober scientific fact and how much is pure brainstorm. The thing is interesting, however. Assume for the moment that his invention will do all he says; would it not be a strange, terrifying device to let loose on civilization?

A cure for cancer would be an unspeakable blessing. But suppose that the cure, if mismanaged, could blow physician, patient, hospital and city into cosmic dust; what then? Would we be willing to see it used?

As a matter of fact, nearly every great advance in civilization is a gift of that kind. Every great boon can be a curse if misused. The steam engine has made possible modern civilization, but in its early days it brought into being man-killing factories that made hopeless drudges out of thousands of men and women. The automobile is a great blessing, yet it kills more than 20,000 people a year on American highways. Even the printing press, which has done so much to enlighten humankind, has its drawbacks; has it not made possible the tabloid scandal sheet?

That, as it happens, is the way civilization makes progress. Men toil on from discovery to discovery; and each new weapon, forged for the service of humanity, is two-edged and proves destructive to the users until it can be properly managed. Nothing comes easily. We pay a great price for every step forward.

Assume that this German's machine actually is a practical, usable affair. As long as we keep our sanity it will be a splendid thing. But if we go to war it may wipe out civilization. Our salvation is strictly up to us.

So it is with everything. It is useless to blame our "machine civilization." The fault always lies with ourselves. If we are wise enough to handle our modern tools all will go well.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNUCK

Poor Clowny stood out in the stream. Said he, "Well, who would ever dream that crazy little monkey would steal my clothes and run away? I'll have to take a longer swim. Oh, look! He's running up a limb. Won't someone kindly catch him quick before he gets away?"

"E-e-k, e-e-k," the little monkey cried, and then he tried his best to hide behind some little branches way up high within the tree. He seemed to know that he had played a clever trick; that's why he stayed clear out of reach where he thought he was safe as could be.

Then Scouty cried, "Come here, you pest! Poor Clowny's anxious to get dressed. You'd better bring his clothes down here or you'll be in a fix." The monkey, however, just squeaked loud, and seemed to laugh down on the crowd, and then he started jumping round and doing funny tricks.

The Tinymites then shook the tree.

The monkey grew busy. "Mercy me," cried Scouty, "he is coming down and then he'll start to run. Don't shake the tree too hard, he'll fall. He really isn't bad at all, and we might hurt the monkey just for having lots of fun."

The little monkey then reached the ground and started jumping around. "Don't tear my clothes," cried Clowny, "they are all I have to wear. If anything at all goes wrong, I'll have to stay here much too long. Please take my things off by the shore and kindly leave them there."

Just at this moment Scouty tried to grab the monkey. Then he cried, "Hey, look, the scamp is running off. Come on, now, let's give chase!" So as the monkey ran here and there, the Tinymites began to tear. This made poor Clowny laugh because "twas quite a funny race."

(The monkeys lead the Tinymites into a trap in the next story.)

MARRYE and "MOM"

Their Letters

BY RUTH DEWEY GROVES

After my last outburst, which must have stunned you somewhat, I am sure you will be relieved to have me be so frivolous self.

I think, possibly, that seeing so many people every day, and finding myself with women who have such decided opinions on everything are making a changed woman out of me.

Jane and I both have made good as models. Jane is more excited about business all the time, and she's making her plans to get one of the best designers here for her own shop. Before she opens it, she will go to Paris to select the fittings for her shop and to bring back some French seamstresses.

She wants me to go into business with her—I even can come in without any capital, since her father is quite willing to finance it for her, and I am seriously considering it. For I find that life passes much more pleasantly for me when I am busy, and there is a fascination in business that I readily respond to.

But whether I want to devote the rest of my life to clothes or not, I don't know. At any rate, I plan to stay here a few weeks longer.

You may be pleased to know that I have been formally introduced to the handsome man with the eyebrows that don't match. He bears the prosaic name of Shelton—William J. I believe.

When he found that I did not respond to his flirtation—and apparently he did not realize that it was lack of time rather than disinclination that caused me to pass him by with such a dutiful air, he set about to be introduced properly.

It seems he knows Madame Elise very well, so he just asked her to present him, which she did. And then when he invited me to luncheon it seemed perfectly proper for me to accept. This I did, and tomorrow we dine in state.

His excuse for wanting to know me is that I resemble some dear but departed friend of his, and he feels that I cannot look so much like her without having a disposition and character similar to hers, and he needs must know me better.

It may be a mere excuse, but a rather interesting one, I think, and I have a theory of my own—that men with that peculiar trick of operating their eyebrows so differently must have some corresponding quirk of temperament. I feel I ought to investigate that hunch, now that the material is right here waiting to put under my microscope.

Therefore, our acquaintance starts out on a highly scientific and commendable basis.

MARYE.

OBITUARY

GEORGE BOHN

(Contributed)

George Frederic Bohn was born in Pisdorf, Alsace-Lorraine, France, on July 10, 1888, and died at the Amboy hospital, June 16, 1928, attaining an age of 39 years, 11 months and 6 days. When but two months old he was baptized in the name of Triune God, on August 19, 1888. His early youth was spent in school during which time he also received religious instruction. At the age of 15, in 1903, he confessed his Christian faith at the altar and received the rite of Confirmation administered to him, which admitted him into full communicant membership in the Lutheran Church.

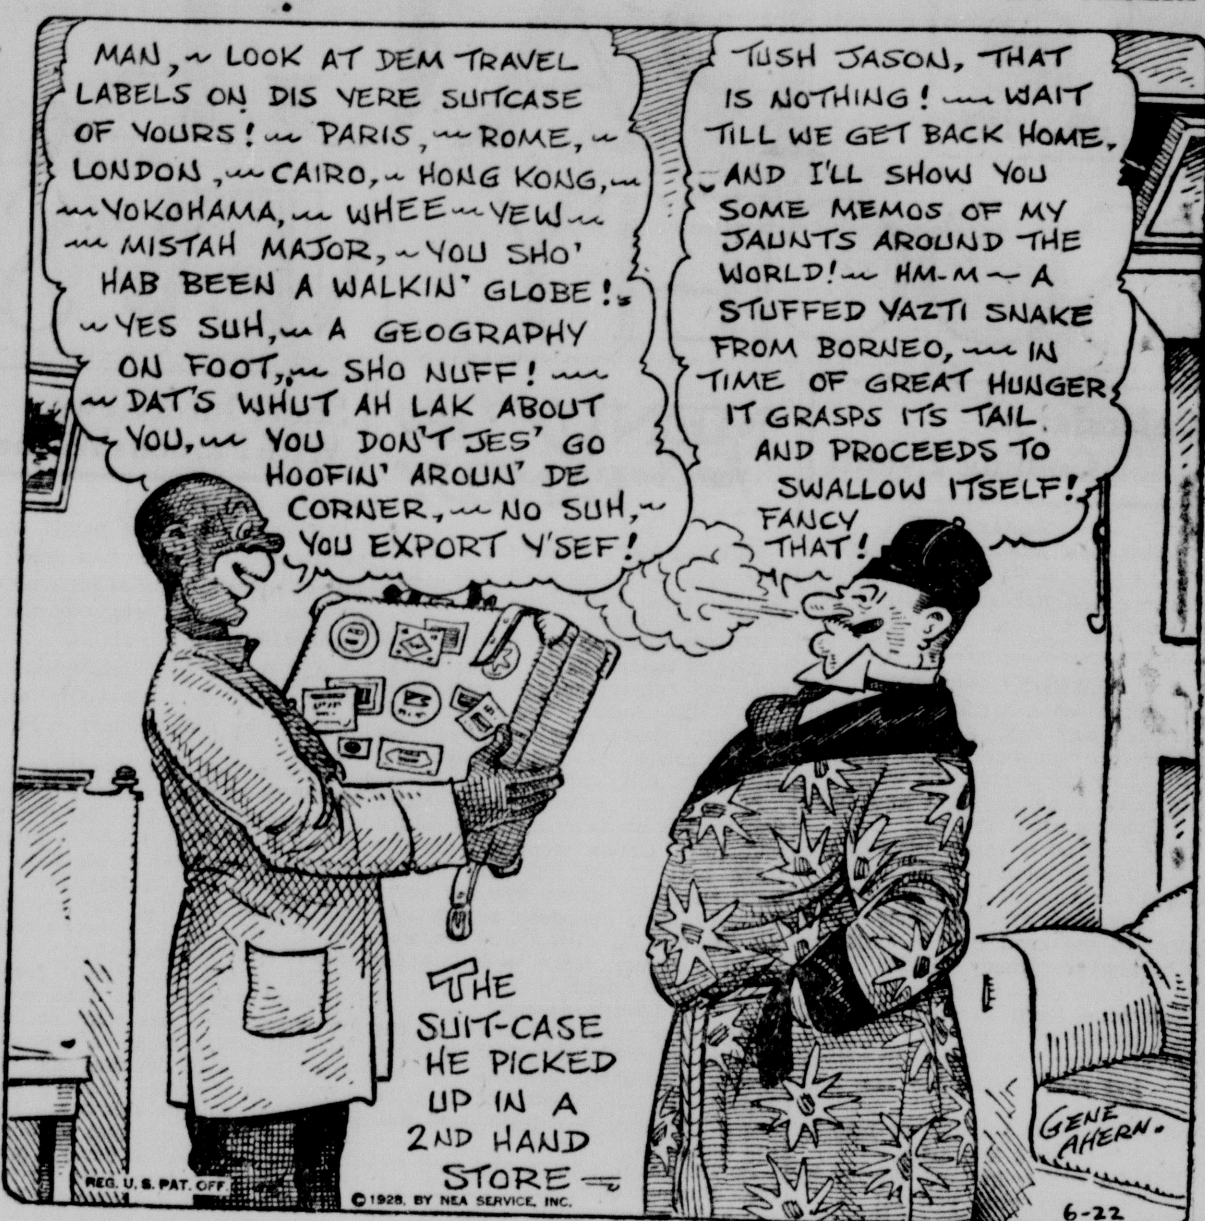

At the age of 22, in 1910, he came to this country and made his home at Rantoul, Ill. After a time he made his home with his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. August Bohn and their family. They made their home for a time at Planagan, Ill., and after a time moved to this community east of Lee Center, where they lived ever since.

Early this past spring the deceased decided to farm a separate piece of ground together with his brother. He was destined, however, not to reap the harvest he had helped to plant. During the spring months he contracted touches of influenza together with severe colds. Suddenly, it seemed, two weeks ago, he was stricken with pneumonia and was immediately taken to the Amboy hospital and given excellent medical care. The inroads upon his health, however, were too deep, and though at times he seemed to rally, his strength rapidly waned until at the end when he quietly went to sleep, leaving on the Everlasting Arms of his Saviour. He was permitted to receive Holy Communion and his thoughts of Eternity toward which he drifted.

Mr. Bohn has always been, not only a faithful Christian as a member of the Lutheran Church, but his personal life and conduct bore fruit to a deep spiritual life. He was ever interested and engaged in the active work of the Church, serving in the capacity of a trustee of this congregation and during the past year as treasurer. He was a charter member of the Amboy Lutheran Brotherhood, and his passing will be a decided loss to the organization. Whatever work he performed was done with characteristic German thoroughness and fidelity even to the small details. The community at large, also knew him well. He was loved, trusted and respected by all. As he now has joined the Church Triumphant, his battles over, may his soul be at peace with the Master whom he served and whose approval he has won with these words of eternal blessing—"Well done, good and faithful servant; thou hast been faithful over a few things; I will make thee ruler over many things; enter thou into the joy of the Lord."

To mourn him remain his brothers August and Henry Bohn, their wives and children, also one brother and three sisters in France, besides many neighbors and close friends.

The song "Asleep in Jesus" just sung, was a special favorite and expressed his faith. A side from that we can hardly express his religious attitude better than in the words of the song which will now be sung, the immortal lines of James Montgomery:

1. Forever with the Lord, Amen, so let it be; Life from the dead is in that word, 'Tis uncertainty.
2. Here in the body pent, Absent from Him I roam, Yet nightly pitch my moving tent a day's march nearer home.

3. My father's house on high, Home of the soul, how at times, to faith's forso'g' eye, Thy golden gates appear.
4. Ah, then my spirit faints to reach the land I love, The bright inheritance of saints, Jerusalem above.
5. Forever with the Lord, "Father, if 'tis Thy will, The promise of that faithful word 'E'en here to me fulfill."

Services were conducted at the Immanuel Lutheran church in Amboy at 2 o'clock Tuesday, by Rev. H. J. Fischer, with interment at Lee Center.

Good Thoughts for Good People

But continue thou in the things which thou hast learned and hast been assured of, knowing of whom thou hast learned them; And that from a child thou hast known the holy scriptures, which are able to make thee wise unto salvation through faith which is in Christ Jesus.

The intellect of the wise is like glass, it admits the light of heaven and reflects it.

Be very sure that no man will learn anything at all unless he first will learn humility.

Leaning on Him, make with reverent meekness His own thy will.

The contemplation of celestial things will make a man both speak and think more sublimely and magnificently when he descends to human affairs.

Not self-will, not human opinions, however positive they may seem to be, constitute our right guides; but rather we are led by the spiritual ideas which when weighed in the balance of divine Love, and tested by the touchstone of Truth, are found to be genuine.

WELL GIVES GASOLINE INSTEAD OF WATER

San Angelo, Texas—(AP)—A well which produces gasoline is one of the wonders of Jones county.

The well, originally dug for water, is 18 feet deep. The gasoline is almost as pure as that produced in oil refineries, and motorists find it satisfactory.

Investigation has revealed that the gasoline seeps into the well from some nearby cavity in the earth. The fluid is taken out with a bucket, and the daily output was 100 gallons for a time.

The well is in the Smith community.

Camp Yomechas is Voted "Best Ever"

Camp Yomechas boys returned Thursday from the ten day camp period at Bovey Springs, declaring the 1928 camp to be the best of all.

A wonderful time was had by all, as the tents were amply water-proof. From reveille at 6:30 until taps at 9:30 the program kept the boys busy and happy. The day's program included: Setting-up exercises, flag raising ceremony, breakfast at 7:30, pass-word meeting at 8:30, followed by baseball games, camp craft and nature study at 11. Dinner at 12. Meeting of Chiefs at 12:45, rest hour for all from 1 until 2. From 2 till 3:30 boys' own hour for fishing and other activities. Class in camp-craft, swimming period at 3:30. Archery and dart-ball at 5. Supper at 6. Followed by horse-shoe pitching and a campfire at 8:30 closing the day's activities.

The camp was in charge of J. C. Koller, General Secretary and C. M. Yohn, Physical director, assisted by Carl Plowman, Delbert Blackburn, Wilbur Stitzel and Clermont DeSelm of Kankakee. Arthur Katogian served as Chef and provided three splendid meals daily.

Mothers and friends of the boys sent cakes and delicacies daily, this being much appreciated by the campers. The list of donors is a long one and space does not permit giving credit to all, but the campers want to thank all who so kindly made donations in order to make the camp more pleasant. Hey Brothers sent a bountiful supply of ice cream. Dr. Lazier a huge bunch of bananas. The Iken Biscuit Company sent a consignment of cookies. Kraft Cheese Company a bountiful supply of cheese, and Mentholum Company sent a generous supply of their product which was much appreciated for sunburn, while delicacies of various kinds were sent by Mesdames I. B. Potter, L. Drach, Roy Withers, James Bales, A. T. Stephenson, O. F. Goeke, E. C. Kennedy, H. W. Harms, and by Mr. E. R. Watts.

A prize for the best picture taken in camp was offered by C. C. Hintz, the winner not being announced as yet. The Pulis Brothers prize for the biggest fish caught in camp will be presented next week, and the Koller prize for the best article made in camp was won by Clive Moline.

Camping Out

By H. S. Diehl, M. D., Minneapolis, Minn. Director Students' Health Service, University of Minn.

(The following is one of a series of articles prepared under the direction of the Gorgas Memorial as part of its Better Health and Longer Life program. President Coolidge is the honorary president of the Memorial, which has been organized and endowed by prominent doctors and laymen throughout the country to perpetuate the life work of the late Major-General Gorgas in preventing unnecessary illness. Headquarters of the Gorgas Memorial are at 400 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago.)

The big business man and the tired mother are advised by their physician to "get away from everything for a while." This advice is the result of the speed and pressure of present day urban life, the tension of which is making out-door vacations more and more of a necessity. The clerk, the skilled artisan, the business and professional man, the housewife, and the children will profit by spending a certain amount of time each year away from the hustle and bustle of the city.

Happily, the same industrial development which has made life more artificial has provided transportation facilities which enable most of us to get into the country, the woods, or the mountains and benefit by the recreation, the exercise, the wholesome fatigue and deep sleep, the fresh air, the stimulated appetite, and the sunshine of the out-of-doors. The automobile has made tourists and campers of millions of people who, lacking such means of transportation, would rarely if ever get away from home and into the country.

A decade ago, when camping in out-of-the-way places, one needed to give but little thought to the danger of contracting disease from the environment, but today horses of tourists reach the most remote parts of our country, making the

ADMITS HE MADE FALSE ASSERTION ABOUT AP SERVICE

Utilities Witness in Federal Hearing is Uncomfortable

Washington, June 22.—(AP)—A public utilities press agent who made a false statement about The Associated Press in a letter, apparently with the idea of impressing his associates, had to admit on the witness stand before the Federal Trade Commission investigation of utility financing that the statement was a figment of his own imagination.

J. B. Sheridan, who was shown yesterday to have severely condemned business methods of his public service employers while being paid by them as director of the Missouri Committee on Public Utility Information, admitted that he had no authority for a statement he made to J. S. Richardson on May 16, 1923, that "word has gone down from headquarters of The Associated Press, to take care of the committees on public utility information."

"I only had an idea," Sheridan testified when Robert E. Healy, chief counsel for the commission asked him on what authority he based the statement.

Had No Authority

Richardson at that time was head of the Pennsylvania Utilities Publicity Committee and now is publicity director for the joint committee for National Utility Associations.

Sheridan testified that when any of his information was carried by The Associated Press it was because it had news value and his letter to Richardson said only that cable of information was submitted.

The letter was written to Richardson shortly after he had become director of the Pennsylvania bureau and said:

"The Associated Press will prove invaluable to you. I think that word has gone down from headquarters to take care of the committees on public utility information. In any event the local managers are very warm to public utility information. Of course, this is a great advantage and we do not press it too strong in Missouri. We avoid asking them to distribute anything except a real story."

Considered It News

Interrogated by Healy, Sheridan declared that he considered that the matter sent by his organization to the press association contained "enough news to justify The Associated Press in carrying the story."

Sheridan testified that he mailed the matter to Kenneth Clark, St. Louis correspondent of The Associated Press at infrequent intervals up until 1926, but that since then he mailed it weekly.

Sheridan testified that the bulletin issued by his organization contained arguments against public ownership of utilities, construction by the government of the Boulder Dam project and operation by the government of Muscle Shoals.

Sheridan also testified that a survey of text books used in Missouri schools had been made and that plans of one committee to seek revision of the text books were not carried out.

CHANGING CREDIT CONDITIONS TOLD TO STATE BANKERS

President of Illinois Merchants Trust Company at State Meet

Rock Island, Ill., June 22.—(AP)—Unprecedented changes in the international financial structure in the past fifteen years have made it necessary for the banker and businessman to constantly keep abreast of the "changing channels of credit."

Eugene M. Stevens, president of the Illinois Merchants Trust Company, Chicago, said here today.

Mr. Stevens addressed the thirty-eighth annual convention of the Illinois Bankers Association.

Beginning with the Federal Reserve Act, Mr. Stevens traced a series of upheavals in the financial world that brought to America the gold and credit leadership of the world.

The Federal Reserve Act, he said, was a complete and fundamental change in the nation's banking system, which gathered into great central reserves the surplus credit, and adopted the principle of credit currency.

Credit currency was in effect a change from a legal tender based on gold and government bonds to a tender based on gold and the obligations of individuals.

Thus were established "great reservoirs of credit" which did not exist before.

Then "incredibly vast drains were made on the inter-national credit reservoirs until they were practically exhausted" by the world war.

"America," said Mr. Stevens, found itself prospering as Europe became impoverished. Europe had to draw on the vast resources of America and had to transfer therefor her own capital. The United States suddenly found itself in possession of nearly one-half the world's gold supply, the basis of the world's credit, in a position of having received the major portion of its debts held abroad, and of having made loans to Europe in enormous amounts.

"The war likewise created a new form of credit, the government debt of some $27,000,000,000. This movement of credit from the people to their country was unique and of far-reaching consequence. It was the beginning of the savings and surplus of the average man entering directly into the broad stream of credit operations which was to be maintained in the continued investment of this new form of people's capital into industry, transportation and trade. This has since prevailed and has been an important factor in the financing of enterprise at home and abroad."

Mr. Stevens said he regarded foreign loans and investments as a logical consequence.

"Why," he asked, "should we not export our surplus capital as well as our surplus goods in other forms?"

Another phase of the changing financial scene, and one upon which Mr. Stevens declined to comment as to its merits or demerits, was installment buying.

Agriculture, too, has had changing channels of credit, with the Federal Land banks, the Joint Stock Land banks and the Federal Intermediary Credit banks, all new agencies of credit. Mr. Stevens called the agricultural problem "the most serious one confronting us today." His opinion was that the problem was not so much one of credit, as it is a problem of conserving production.

In all these changes, Mr. Stevens saw one danger: that the country would become "over-invested." "For some years," he pointed out, "there has been much talk of the abundance of money. However, with the unprecedented advances in securities loans it appears we have more than absorbed the available surplus. If the surplus money of banks is represented in stock exchange loans, we have absorbed our surplus and an additional billion dollars we have borrowed."

Export of alcoholic beverages from Canada in twelve months ending with February, 1928, was $44,211,816; as against $28,646,039 in the previous 12 months.

HEARERS C. CURTIS

That's the ticket, nominated at Kansas City by the Republican National Convention and everyone I have come in contact with declares it will win this fall. Hoover is a well equipped man and will make a good president. "Charley" Curtis, as we call him down here, has made a splendid record in public life and will hold up his end of the administration. We all admire Senator Curtis very much and no man is better fitted to preside over the deliberations of the oft troubled senate than Curtis. He has been majority leader for some years and made a good one. I don't think he has an enemy in the Senate. He is a harmonizer.

Secretary Hoover has made one of the best heads of his Department we have ever had. He is a hard worker, doesn't say much, but does things. Not much of a talker, but when he does speak he drives right to the point. I presume Curtis will do much of the campaigning. When you see Curtis and hear what he has to say you have confidence in him. Hoover has some ideas about farm relief and will put his ideas in operation, if given an opportunity. The one outstanding feature at the Convention was Hoover's telegram of acceptance. It is a masterpiece. No one can read and study it and believe that the nominee is not an American. Hoover was a force in the World War operations. His work shows that and he got good results. It is the case of another orphan boy making good. His father a blacksmith, his home an humble one, his early associates the salt of the earth, through all of this went the boy Hoover. He had ambition. He had the energy to throw behind it. He was selected by a friend for the purpose of seeing just what an orphan boy could do with proper coaching. This friend got behind the boy, encouraged him, put him through college, and started him out into the world. The boy selected had something in him, splendid material upon which to build. He made good and when he received the news of his nomination at Kansas City, at his Washington home, his eyes filled with tears, and with his head bowed on his desk he really wept. That's a good trait. That shows a heart full of sympathy and a soul big and full of sentiment. Republicans, let's get behind the man who was early left without the love of a mother and the guidance of a father, and put him over.

It can be truly said that "Charley" Curtis is the greatest American of them all, for through his veins there flows Indian blood. Curtis worked his way through the ranks from boyhood to manhood. He knew hardships. He had no silver spoon in his mouth. Humble parentage, but a determination to win. Like Hoover he found friends. Every lad worthy of assistance can always find some person to assist. Curtis will add strength to the ticket.

This is the first time in the history of all political parties when one of the great parties went beyond the Missouri river for the presidential candidates—no, not the Mississippi River, but the Missouri River. Hoover, from the Golden State, bordering on the Pacific Coast; Curtis, from the great agricultural State, Kansas. Down here in the East they like the ticket.

I regret that Colonel Lowden could not win. Just why, I don't know. Well equipped, well balanced, but Lowden has been mighty unfortunate in his rise through the wilds and along the trail of public life. In 1920 he could have been the vice presidential candidate. He refused. Had he taken that honor, he would now be president of the United States. But the finger of Fate wrote otherwise. "Silent Cal" took it and is now at the head of the Nation. In 1924 Lowden was actually nominated for vice-president, and again declined. He refused several cabinet positions and he could have gone abroad as one of America's representatives. This he would not accept. So his political book has been written. He made Illinois a splendid governor; his district an able congressman, but he could not make the White House. But, Colonel Lowden must be happy now that it is all over. With his family, he can now enjoy the fullness of life in his declining years. But he lived a useful life and gave much to the growth of his great State and his Nation.

The New York Times of June 17, 1928, editorially says:

"In 1920 Mr. Lowden was the victim of the direct primary and the stupidity or worse of the agents it makes necessary and the methods it stimulates. His fitness for the Presidency was exceptional and unquestioned. He brought himself from the obscure fortunes to a brilliant position at the bar. He served with distinction in the House of Representatives. He put into practice that system or organized, coordinated and responsible State Government of which he had been one of the most forceful advocates. His intellect is quick and clear. He is master of the art of speech as well as of administration; and he has an unconscious genius for making friends.

He is also a man of positive character, and for a politician, he is inconveniently and even fatally independent. A farmer and stock raiser on a great scale in a number of States he is particularly interested in agriculture. He studied it, as he studies other public questions. Whether or not too much impressed with the extent of the 'agrarian' agitation in the Middle West, he came to the conviction that the Government was bound to aid the farmers. Neither the constitutional nor the economic objections to the McNary-Haugen plan can have escaped his attention. We take it that his acceptance of the equalization fee meant that he thought the project, with all its faults, the best concrete one that could be agreed upon.

"He is the kind of man who will not feed upon platform husks of vague benevolent intentions.

Meanwhile, he had cut himself off in 1924 from the congregation of the faithful. He wouldn't be a candidate for Vice President. Later he refused other high offices offered him by Mr. Coolidge. In his own state, republican politics were unphitful. Some of his ostensible supporters were his known enemies. He could have gone to Kansas City with no illusions. The game, either among the so-called allies or the forcible Peabodies of the East, was not one to please so proud a nature. He did the best he could for "the cause."

Mr. Lowden deserves congratulation. He was too stiff-kneed and stiff-backed to take the easy path to promotion. He preferred to be on the blacklist. He wouldn't change or mollify his opinions. He went his own way. If in 1920 luck was treacherous to him, in 1928 of his own free choice he became the champion of a minority. Withdrawing his name, he clung to his faith, Cato of the vanquished "cause". He will still work for the "rescue" of agriculture by act of Congress. Whatever we may think of his economic heresy, it is a satisfaction to find a man who would rather be wrong than be President."

This week the Republican leaders will endeavor to perfect some of the plans for the campaign. "Jim" Good of Chicago, and a splendid organizer, will quite likely have much to say about the operations of the campaign. When Good went over to Hoover and took charge of the campaign, "I knew something would happen. I was associated with Good in the pre-convention campaign for Coolidge and I learned then that he is a trip-hammer in the organization game. Good is familiar with the mid-West politics; he is a close student of issues and men. Senator Deneen will also have a big part in the national campaign. There is another Illinois man, rather silent, but works hard and effectively, Roy West of Chicago. West and Good like each other and will make a good team.

Republican leaders of Illinois must not neglect the state campaign. There is much to do and it will require pretty good generalship. Illinois has a good ticket and all Republicans must do their part. Our state will benefit largely by the work done by the national committee, and the result in Illinois in November will depend to a large degree on the character of the campaign put on by the national leaders.

Nearly all of the Democratic leaders around the Capital have gone, or soon will go toward Houston. It looks like Smith will be the winner, but quite a few are betting that Smith will not be nominated. Hull of Tennessee is making quite an effort to get some strength. Hull is one of the cleanest and ablest leaders in the party. Jones of Texas is winning friends here in the East. I had a very pleasant visit with Congressman Hull of Tennessee several days ago and he has hopes.

The organist of St. Matthews church, Philadelphia, has held the position continuously for 53 years.

It requires 100,000,000 miles of wire to run the world's telephones.

In the United States there are now about 30,000,000 persons who play musical instruments, which is about twice the number of five years ago. During the war music in all countries received a great stimulus.

In some parts of the Malay Peninsula there are insects over 12 inches long and butterflies that measure a foot from tip to tip of the wings. Egyptians ate more American apples last year than in any previous 12 months.

During the last 12 years the number of horses in the country has been cut one-third through the introduction of various forms of mechanical power. In the main, this substitution has been economical and for the most part justified the reduction in the number of horses, but the present rate of breeding will not be adequate for the demands of the farms in the course of a few years. It is reasonable to believe, however, that an average of two horses for each farm in the United States will not be adequate for economical power supplies of the future. While there are now about 20,000,000 horses and mules in the country, only enough colts are being raised to maintain the number at about 11,000,000. It is true that the present market price of horses and mules is not encouraging, but the trend has been upward during the last year, and on the basis of present information there is an indication that prices will continue upward for the next five or ten years.

a candidate for nomination. Charles Warren Fairbanks of Indiana was nominated for vice president. The election was close, and at first it appeared that Hughes and Fairbanks in California, attributed by some to surviving disaffection of the progressive republicans there for the party from which they had broken away in the 1912 campaign, gave Wilson the presidency for a second term.

HEALTH DIET ADVICE

Dr. McCoy, Los Angeles specialist, will gladly answer personal questions on health and diet, addressed to him, care of The Telegraph. Enclose stamped, addressed, large envelope for reply.

NERVOUS EXHAUSTION

Doctors sometimes refer to America as a nation of neurasthenics, which means those with nerve debility. One peculiarity of a neurasthenic is that he may develop the symptoms of almost any other disease because he readily receives suggestions, especially about sickness.

The symptoms of neurasthenia are so many that it is almost impossible to give a complete description of a case, but there usually is an inability to sleep, or lying awake for hours with a tendency to fall asleep when it is time to get up for work, and arising more exhausted than when they retired. There are weakening pains, headaches, eyeache, night sweating, palpitation of the heart, indigestion, muscular spasms such as difficult breathing, choking sensation, and faint finding and criticism.

Most people who have a nervous breakdown, complain themselves with the belief that it is due to overwork, but it is more likely due to a toxic condition of the body, associated with an unpleasant environment. Many of these sufferers are under the impression that this disease is incurable and that they are doomed to death. Doctors sometimes add to this trouble by assuring these patients that they are "just a bundle of nerves" and that they need a good rest or trip to the seashore, or any place where they are not living at that time.

The sooner the nervous patient realizes that he alone is responsible for his trouble, the more quickly will he find the real cause. One cannot get away from one's own bad habits by taking a trip to the country. It is destructive habits that are practiced twenty-four hours a day at home that are causing the nervous breakdown, and if these bad habits are changed to good ones, the patient will then be on the road to health and happiness.

Many men and women patients of forty-five or more claim they have had from five to ten nervous breakdowns. These people will generally assure the doctor that they have been overworking when they probably have really been suffering from a lack of enjoyment of their work.

Really successful men and women seldom complain of nervousness. It is only those who waste energy with dissatisfaction with what they are, and are constantly disappointed at their lack of success, who develop real nervous breakdowns.

When really nervous women become angry, they sometimes work themselves into a hysterical state, almost losing their reason, screaming and kicking until they are exhausted or get what they want. This is a little different from nerve exhaustion, but it usually shows a spoiled nature that is simply having an acute attack of bad temper. In almost every case of hysteria there is a pelvic congestion. Temporary paralysis is frequently produced by hysteria. The patient is sometimes unable to move, although perfectly conscious, and retaining the power of reason and speech. Sometimes there is a paralysis of the vocal cords, inability to swallow. This paralysis usually only lasts a few minutes, but in extreme cases may continue for years if the cause is not removed. In almost every case there is a congestion in the womb of the female, or the prostate of the male. This may be caused by prolapsed organs or inflammation. This trouble which is often related to or mistaken for nerve exhaustion, is all brought on by pelvic congestion.

Real nerve exhaustion is usually brought on by the absorption of poisons from the intestines, so you see that in both these cases, a cure depends upon a proper functioning of the abdominal region, combined with good mental habits and proper recreation.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

QUESTION: Mrs. O. J. L. writes: "Please tell me the cause of severe pain at the lower end of the spinal column. What would you recommend as a remedy? I suffer from piles and constipation."

ANSWER: First, get rid of your constipation, then your rectal trouble will quickly disappear, and perhaps the pain in the lower spine, as such pain is often caused from constipation and the distension of the rectum because of the packing up of fecal matter.

QUESTION: K. L. M. asks: "What special element does the grapefruit contain that makes it such a healthful fruit?"

ANSWER: The large amount of organic quinine contained in grapefruit is beneficial in liver complaints.

QUESTION: Jerry writes: "Every fifteen minutes or so, night and day, I have a 'flush' or heat wave. These are preceded by a most depressing sensation. I have had them for about ten years."

ANSWER: You probably have some kind of functional heart disorder which makes your circulation irregular. Systematic exercise and diet, if persisted in, will bring about a cure.

QUESTION: Mrs. O. H. asks: "Is an operation for varicose veins on the leg a serious one?"

ANSWER: Removal of the enlarged veins is always a dangerous procedure not so much because of the danger of the operation itself, but because of the after-effects. It is far better to wear an elastic stocking, or to reduce the size of the vein by electrical treatments or the application of ice. The ice should be held against the enlarged vein for three or four minutes at a time, and this treatment given two or three times daily.

Kaskaskians Expects Curse to be Banished

Kaskaskia, Ill., June 22—(AP)—Historic Kaskaskia, where the legends and tales and truths of stirring frontier days on the Mississippi river abound, this year awaits the fulfillment of an ancient prophecy.

If it comes true, the curse of a revengeful priest upon the village for four generations, will be banished.

Legends, deep in the minds of the little group of people that today carry on the once-great dreams of their dwindling village, say that more than a hundred years ago Father St. Cyr uttered a curse on the settlement that has ever since held evil sway over its destinies.

The tale goes that Kaskaskians had driven the priest from the village and cast him adrift on the Mississippi when his harshness irked the settlers.

As the condemned priest drifted down the river on his open raft, he shouted a curse at the villagers. He was reputed to have said: "I curse you and your tribe. I call down the vengeance of Heaven and an outraged God upon his faithless children. I pray that you all may be cursed in your lives and in your deaths. I curse your homes and your children, may sickness and sorrow attend you as long as you live. I curse your gardens and your streets, and pray that the river, at the command of an offended Almighty, may rise, cover your village, ruin your crops, ruin your homes and consume even the land you stand upon, and may your fields be the abiding place of fishes. I curse your dead, may they be disturbed in their graves, robbed of their resting place and may your sacred altar be torn down and removed from the foul spot it marks. I hurl defiance and bitterness at ye. May you live sorrowful lives and die miserable deaths. Go tell your children that my curse shall rest upon them to the fourth generation."

Not all of the father's angry condemnations have come true, but poor land and the ravages of an unrestrained river in its yearly floods have harmed the village. This year, the "children of the fourth generation" see new land appearing and Army engineers planning to control the Mississippi. The end of the ancient curse is nearing, they believe.

Tom Mooney Is Seeking Pardon

A new effort is being made to obtain a pardon for Tom Mooney, serving a life sentence in San Quentin prison.
California, for participation in the preparation and bombing in 1916 in which 19 persons were killed.
Mooney, broken in health, is shown above as he looks today. In the insert he is pictured as he appeared shortly after his arrest in 1916.

TWO ARE EVEN IN LEAD OF NATION- AL OPEN TOURNEY

Ball and Ciciu Each Broke
Par by One Stroke
Yesterday

BY BASIL G. WYRICK
(Associated Press Golf Writer)
Chicago, June 22—(AP)—The international character of the National Open golf championship, remained intact in the second round today, but the foreign threat was not so menacing as it was before the first round, the 72 hole contest set the Americans far in the van.

Out in front, although it might not be for long, stood Frank Ball, of Atlanta, a former Briton, and Henry Ciciu of Stratford, Conn., who broke par by one stroke with 70 each in the first round. Second place was held by Leonard Schmutte of Lima, Ohio, formerly Hoosier champion, with par 71.

But in head of Archie Compston of Great Britain with 76 hardly won by marvelous recoveries, and Aubrey Boomer of France, with 75 which might easily have been better, stood such successful tournament winners as Leo Diegel with 72, Bobby Jones, amateur champion; Willie Hunter, formerly British amateur champion and three former national open champions, Freddie MacFarlane, Jim Barnes and Willie MacFarlane, with 73 each. Then there were George Von Elm of Detroit, formerly national amateur titleholder, with 74; Walter Hagen and MacDonald Smith with 75 each. Jack Hutchinson and Tommy Armour with 76 on even terms with Compston.

Compston Sensation
And how did Compston, who defeated Walter Hagen by the unbelieveable margin of 18 and 17 and finished only 3 strokes behind him in the British Open, get his 74? He got it by the most spectacular display of recoveries from seemingly impossible trouble that a National Open probably has ever witnessed.

The defending champion, Tommy Armour, playing with Compston, was also erratic, visiting the woods a couple times and also missing a 2 foot putt. Aubrey Boomer of France starting well and with somewhat better luck, looked more threatening than Compston. The Australian

Open champion, Rufus Stewart, never got started, taking 80 and virtually eliminating any threat from the Antipodes.

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

WALKER VICTOR BUT CROWD WAS FOR CHALLENGER

Long Protest Demonstration Followed the Chicago Fight

BY ALAN J. GOULD Chicago, June 22—(AP)—The bulldog is still champion but he has the marks and bruises of a terrific combat with the wildest to show that he came out of the fray far from unscathed.

After ten slashing, slashing rounds that finished in a torrential downpour of rain last night at Comiskey Park, Mickey Walker, the bulldog, was declared the victor on points over Ace Hudkins, the Nebraska wildcat, but it will be some time before the echoes of protest and dissent from that verdict die down.

Purdy For Hudkins. Walker retained his world's mid-dewight crown on a two to one decision. The two judges, Harry Carroll and Edward Klein, gave their ballots to the titleholder but the referee, Eddie Purdy, cast his vote for the challenger. In the soaked and sodden press row, a clear majority credited Hudkins with being the winner, chiefly on his tireless two-fisted aggressiveness. Most of the experts gave Ace a margin in six of the ten rounds while many credited the blond wildcat with as many as seven, to offset, in a consensus, the few who figured Walker was justly the winner.

But if there was dissent from the decision around the ringside it was mild by comparison with the outburst that came from the dripping crowd, some 25,000 to 30,000 spectators who sat doggedly through the dripping, bloody, ceaseless battle between the bulldog and the wildcat. The road of bores and hisses grew, instead of diminishing. Hundreds swarmed about the ring to shout and shake their fists. Thousands, more prudent even if also vehement, went back to the shelter of the ball park's stands to vent their vocal wrath. It was one of the wildest demonstrations of disapproval any champion-ship fight has witnessed in recent years, lasting 15 minutes in full volume and a half hour in more sporadic form.

Hud Carried Fight To most of those huddled around the ringside, as the rain beat down in torrents throughout the last three rounds, it appeared clear that the blond Hudkins, ripping into his foe with relentless rushes, deserved to win with a whirlwind rally in the last five rounds that offset Walker's big splurge in the third, fourth and fifth rounds. Walker, with a series of vicious, well-directed clouts to the chin and head, had Hudkins groggy and reeling backward and apparently on the verge of a knockout in the fourth round, the most spectacular moment of the fight. Mickey had victory in his grasp here but could not put Hudkins down or even prevent him from finishing this round with a characteristic counter charge—the lunge of a wounded wildcat.

Couldn't Stop "Ace." His big opportunity gone, Walker never thereafter was able to beat Hudkins' wild rushes or prevent the Ace from boring in, burying his bloody head in Walker's shoulder and whaling away with both fists. Hudkins forced the fight throughout the last five rounds. Occasionally his head was jolted back by Walker's left. His face was a mask of blood, oozing from cuts about both eyes and his nose but he refused to be tamed. Walker, constantly in retreat and unable to shake off his persistent foe, struggled and clinched, squirmed and dodged out of corners as Ace flayed body and head ceaselessly.

Both Were Bloody. Walker was cut in the nose in the first round and over the left eye in the second. Ace started to bleed in the third from Walker's ripping hooks. By the end of the fight both were crimson, grotesque figures in the downpour.

Hudkins, the aggressor from the start, was warned several times for holding, pinning Walker's arm and slugging with which ever hand happened to be free. These tactics, perhaps, were counted by the two judges against Hudkins, thus helping the score in Walker's favor. Walker landed the sharper, more effective blows—when he could wrest himself free to land them—but Hudkins landed oftener. The Ace was always willing to take a few cracks on the chin in order to get in close, flail away with both hands and stay there.

It was the wettest fight since the Tunney-Dempsey battle in the rain at the Sesqui-Centennial Stadium, Philadelphia, in 1926. It was the most unsatisfactory decision, to ring-side and spectators, since Walker won the mid-dewight title from Tiger Flowers here in December, 1926.

Watching the Big Scoreboard

BY WILLIAM J. CHIPMAN (Associated Press Sport Writer) Babe Ruth seems to have run the scale in baseball experiences now that, after fifteen years, he finally has watched a home run vanish from the records in a rain-storm. He poked his twenty-sixth in among the steering passengers in right field at the Yankee Stadium yesterday, but it was washed from the books when the second half of the Yankee-Athletic double header was halted by rain.

Young Henry Johnson, Yankee re-

ABE MARTIN

There's plenty o' peace in any home where th' family keeps scattered an' its members don't make th' mistake o' tryin' t' git t'gether. Miss Tawney Apple covered her back with powdered rosin an' went t' a dance last night.

crut, gave the Athletics their second 1928 shut-out in the first game, 4 to 0, and enabled the Yankees to lengthen their lead to nine and one-half games. The Athletics outthit the champions, 9 to 7, but Johnson was tight in the pinches.

In the second game the Mackmen were leading, 3 to 2, and had men on second and third with one out when the drizzle became a torrent. Joining Ruth on the mourners' bench was Al Simmons, who lost two doubles.

Guerilla warfare along the rest of the American league front saw the Red Sox turn the tables on the Senators, 9 to 2, while Cleveland was dividing another double-header with the lowly White Sox on the Indian reservation. The Indians won the first, 4 to 2 and the White Sox the second, 4 to 3, with an amazing three-run rally in the ninth.

Chicago's even break coupled with Detroit's double reverse in St. Louis sent the Tigers to within half a game of last place. The Browns won, 8 to 3 and 9 to 5, as Schang, Blue and Bettencourt hit home runs.

The torrid National League race, which showed signs of disintegrating under the incessant pounding of the Cardinals, needed a slight gain for the runner-up Reds yesterday. The Rhinelanders nosed out the Pirates, 5 to 4, as McKechnie's flying cohorts were submitting to an even break in Chicago. The day's campaigning left the Reds three and one-half games to the rear of the Cardinals.

Sheriff Fred Blake had to turn in a two-hit game to win from St. Louis in the opener, and Charlie Root was altogether unable to cope with the Cardinal stampede in the nightcap, which went to the visitors 4 to 1.

The Giants finally swung into action at Boston, after suffering five postponements in their first six scheduled appearances in the Hub. Fred Fitzsimmons hurled the clan of McGraw to a handsome victory by 9 to 4 in the first brush, and the new Yorkers seemed headed for a sweep, with Benton scheduled to pitch the second game.

Benton ran into a very fine bit of box-work by Arthur Delaney, and the Giants had to be satisfied with a 3 to 1 defeat.

A SMOKE SURPRISE FOR A NICKEL

Here's a Really Fine-tasting Cigar at a Low Price

You smokers who raise your eyebrows when "a good five-cent cigar" is mentioned—don't be so sure that "there ain't no such animal." There is! All you need is a nickel and a memory for names, to get on it's track. Havana Ribbon—that's the cigar. Been on the market for thirty years. Always a mighty good cigar for the money. Today—thanks to modern methods and immense production—it is nothing less than marvelous! Ripe tobacco—from heart to wrapper! Smoke so cool and sweet and full of mellow-mild flavor, you'll scarce believe such goodness could ever be crowded into a cigar for five cents.

Try it, men! A nickel won't break you. And it won't make us. Yet, if you think we're overstating things, your dealer is authorized to hand back your money, if you say the word. There's a cigar counter near. Let's go. Also sold in Practical Pocket Packages of five cigars.

But read what men who have used it say. They know!
"I have used Iso-Vis motor oil in my Jewett since it was first marketed to the public. It has given me greater satisfaction than any oil I have ever used."
—L. J. Sprague, Oregon, Wis.
"Iso-Vis is making better customers of our old ones, and bringing in new ones." —J. B. Greer, Newland Garage, Sedalia, Mo.
"I have used several different kinds of oil in my car in the past twelve months, but I am pleased to say that I have never found a single oil that could compare with Iso-Vis for real lubrication." —P. Brauer, Cashier, Eldridge State Bank, Eldridge, North Dakota
These quotations are from a few of the thousands of letters written—voluntarily—to the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) praising Iso-Vis. It's an oil so good people write letters about it—unasked!
What a difference Iso-Vis will make in your motoring! You'll never know until you try it! Stop today and ask for the grade made especially for your car!
